Welcoming Address

Ministry of Road and Urban Development has been established in 2011, as one of the ministries of I.R. of Iran after merging the Ministry of Housing & Urban Development and Ministry of Road and Transportation. Considering the necessities of national economic, social and security development, this Ministry is responsible for comprehensive policy making, developing, equipping, maintaining, constructing and managing infrastructures development in various fields of transportation(land, marine and air), housing and urban development. Moreover, setting the necessary laws and regulations in each of technical and investment sectors and fields are among the most important functions and goals of this Ministry at country level.

"Iran Transportation & Urban Development Summit" "Investment Opportunities" (ITUDS 2015) will be held in October 2015, in Tehran, by taking into consideration the serious relevant necessities of this field. It is no doubt that the conducted planning for holding this event, could play a pivotal role for materializing Iran's development goals.

These goals have been set through taking into consideration the importance of Geographical position of Iran in accessing the international waters from one side and situating in global displacement crossroad and proximity to Asia, Europe, Middle East and Indian sub-continent as well as Persian Gulf countries from another side.

Turning Iran to a regional communication hub, expanding the south-north collaborations, transporting of commercial commodities, taking advantage of electronic customs and advanced systems, new technologies and speeding up in operationalizing the national and international projects are considered among the important issues which have been taken into consideration in development of Iran's transportation industry.

Moreover, increasing need for housing and the necessity for urban development in compliance with Iranian and Islamic patterns and taking advantage of innovative technologies for optimizing the construction are among the main important goals in development of Iran's constructing and housing industry.

"Iran Transportation & Urban Development Summit" "Investment Opportunities" (ITUDS 2015) will be held as the first serious and premier event in the areas of recognizing and introducing the existing investment opportunities in Iran's Transportation, Housing and Urban Development industries after signing the nuclear deal with P5+1 countries and lifting the economic sanctions.

The main aim of this significant event is concentrated on attracting, organizing and guiding the internal and international investors, explaining the available rules and incentives and convergence of involved internal and international organizations and bodies, active in investing in this Iran's important infrastructure industries.

Thus, I would like to seize this opportunity to invite all involved managers, authorities and experts of concerning national and international companies, banks and institutions, active or interested to be engaged in the fields of transportation, housing and urban development, as well as the university professors, for taking part in this summit and acquainting with upcoming opportunities.
